Robert's Testimonial:

“Mobility exchanges are an extremely positive experience. During the conference, as a Head of School, I emphasized the fact that the Erasmus + programme is essential, especially for our students who might have financial problems and never had and will have the opportunity to go abroad. Therefore with this programme they have the chance to explore, mix with other students, experience different cultures, wider their knowledge, communicate in a foreign language and boost their personality and most of all building their self-esteem which they all lack.

The European Union says that we are improving but there is still more to be done. As a school, ALP is already involved in 3 projects, another 3 year project has been approved this year and we are ready to participate in more. This is a win-win situation where it is not just the students that benefit, but also the accompanying educators, who are also involved directly, together with other foreign partners, in setting up the programme for the project. They widen their experience in education, learning new teaching methodologies, and enhancing cultural and mutual respect.

Malta being an island, the only communication with the outside world is via internet. Water separates us from the rest of Europe. Therefore these projects involving the mobility of persons to different parts of Europe and also beyond, bring people of different countries face to face to work together and learn from each other. This is how bridges are built and this is how better citizens are nurtured.”
